Feline Health Recommendations

Vaccines: Core

RCP (feline Rhinotracheitis-Calici-Panleukopenia viruses)

Rabies incurable, deadly virus for both your pet and humans

Lifestyle

FeLV (feline leukemia virus)

Feline Viral Screening: An in-house blood screen for feline leukemia virus and feline immunodeficiency virus is available. Another blood screen is available to screen for feline infectious peritonitis virus. *All 3 of these feline viruses are present in this area, are incurable, and are contagious to all exposed cats. Your doctor can help you decide which screening is most appropriate for your cat based on history and lifestyle.

Intestinal Parasites:

Fecal check: Recommended at least annually. A thorough screen for disease causing parasites that your cat may easily pick up from the indoor and outdoor environment and that may be spread to humans. Common local intestinal parasites include hookworm, roundworm, whipworm, giardia, coccidia, and tapeworm. All are endemic in this area.

Revolution: Monthly topical that helps prevent disease from both intestinal and external parasites; fleas, heartworm, hookworm, roundworm, and ear mites.

Microchip: The HomeAgain Microchip is a safe and effective way to make sure that your pet will be identified properly to ensure it returns home to you quickly and safely. Statistically 1 in 3 pets will get lost during their lifetime. Without ID, 90% of lost pets never return home. Ask us how the HomeAgain Microchip can help you and your pet.

Wellness Plans: We offer tailored annual wellness plans to promote exceptional care for our patients and to ease the financial burden for our clients. Your doctor can review your pets' history and discuss which plan would best benefit you and your pet.

Diet: A proper diet is one of the most important aspects that you can control to ensure health and longevity for your cat. As your cats life stages change, so does its' nutritional needs. We can assist you in making sure that your cats' specific needs are met.

Please allow our team to assist you in providing your specific pet with the proper tests and/or preventative products to ensure a long and happy life for your companion. It is our goal to ensure health for both your pet and your family.
